Language dictionaries

It is sometimes hard to find suitable foreign language dictionaries for adult learners. I have built up experience in tracking down as good an option as possible - easy to carry, reasonably up to date and value for money. Please ask for a quote for the language needed.

What is Language Post?

Language Post is a small business set up in 2003 by Clarice Brierley to create English language resources for adult learners. The main focus has been on ESOL learners. However the repeated phonic patterns, limited vocabulary and simple sentence structures make the materials equally accessible to adult and teenage basic skills learners. Where possible the resources are sold with the right to print and copy as needed.

The reading resources are simple disposable A5 booklets which can be produced in minutes on a fast photocopier. It should be possible for learners to have their own copies to read with their children and make notes on.

Language Post develops, publishes and distributes learning resources.
